NEGRESS REPUDIATES MRS. GIBSON'S STATEMENT

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott in charge of the Hall-Mills murder investigation, declined to say today what effect the sworn statement of Mrs. Nellie Lo Russell, negress, made public yesterday, would have on his plans for early presentation of the case to the grand jury. Mrs. Russell swore that she was with Mrs. Jane Gibson at the time the latter had stated she witnessed the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills and Mrs. Gibson was not near the spot where the bodies were found. She said that instead Mrs. Gibson was at her house, a few hundred yards from the Gibson cottage. Other than the statement that Mrs. Russell's affidavit would be investigated, Mr. Mott refused to comment on the new development, which attacked a vital point in the prosecution.

A physical encounter between woman witnesses in the Hall-Mills murder mystery was the latest development in the case today.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, who raises pigs and says she saw the murder, and Mrs. Nellie Lo Russell, negress, who keeps cows and says Mrs. Gibson could not have seen the murder because she was at her house at the time, had an altercation yesterday over a pig. Mrs. Russell admitted the encounter in an interview today but declared she was not the aggressor, adding that she harbored no ill will toward Mrs. Gibson. Mrs. Russell declined to discuss her affidavit made public yesterday for counsel for the rectory's widow in which she was at her home at the time the "pig woman" swore she was a witness to the double murder.

The negress lives in a one room shack built on stilts in the middle of a field not far from Mrs. Gibson's home.

Patrick Thornton, a farmer who lives in the vicinity, and Louis Sapp, who boards with him, declared today that the negress told them her story about a week ago. Both admitted they had paid no attention to it at the time.

Japanese Not Eligible For Citizenship In America

WASHINGTON, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Japanese are not eligible for naturalization in the United States, it was held today by the supreme court.

In its finding the court disposed of two cases, one brought from Hawaii by Toku Ozawa against the United States and the other by Takaji Yamashita and Charles Hiroko against the secretary of state of Washington. In the latter case both Japanese had been naturalized by a court of the state of Washington, but were refused incorporation as a real estate firm on the ground that their naturalization had been illegal. The lower federal courts denied naturalization in both cases, but the ninth circuit court of appeals in considering the Ozawa case, suspended its decision and asked the supreme court for instructions as to whether Japanese are eligible for citizenship under the naturalization laws.

The question largely turned upon whether section 2169 of the revised statutes, restricting naturalization to "free white persons" and those of African descent was still in force.

The Tiger Gets Up Early And Retires Early

ABOARD THE STEAMSHIP PARIS, ENROUTE TO NEW YORK, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Almost every passenger aboard the steamship Paris is honoring the maxim early to bed and early to rise in order to watch Georges Clemenceau take his early morning walk on the decks. The former French premier gets out of bed at five o'clock, paces up and down the ship awhile and then goes back to his cabin. One is lucky to catch a glimpse of him after that. At dawn today he was up on the bridge watching the sun rise. He intimated that he would not attend the ship's concert Thursday evening preferring not to break his custom of retiring at 5 and rising at 5:30.

Ulster Appeals To Voters Of Great Britain

BELFAST, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The Ulster association for "peace with honor" composed for the most part of prominent Belfast tradesmen, has issued an appeal to the voters of England in which it is declared that "Ulster intends to remain part and parcel of the British empire."

The appeal points out that Ulster having been a part of the empire for over 100 years, it is not fair to carry on the work entrusted to her by the imperial parliament without any difficulty being placed in the way.

"Ulster stands today as she has always done, for the empire and the flag," the appeal said. "Her loyal citizens appeal to the voters of England, Scotland and Wales to see that the unity of the empire for which they stand, is not forgotten when the time comes for them to cast their votes."

Bellamy Storer Dies In France

PARIS, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Bellamy Storer, long prominent as an American diplomatist, died last night in a hotel here, where he was staying with Mrs. Storer.

Mr. Storer came here from Italy with Mrs. Storer two weeks ago.

CINCINNATI, O., November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Bellamy Storer, attorney and former diplomat of Cincinnati, died in Paris, France, last night, according to a cablegram received in Cincinnati today.

The cablegram was received by Philip Hinkle, of the Central Trust Company of this city, who was in charge of part of the Storer estate in this city.

The circumstances of the death of Mr. Storer was not stated in the cablegram, but it is known that the former ambassador had been in ill health for the past year.

Bellamy Storer, who died in Paris yesterday, was American ambassador to Austria-Hungary in 1902-06, and before that had been minister to Belgium and Spain. He represented the first Ohio district in the 52nd and 53rd congresses. He was born in Cincinnati, August 28, 1847, and was graduated from Harvard College in 1867. He entered the law two years later and was appointed an assistant United States attorney of the southern district of Ohio.

NEW YORK, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Mr. Storer's death recalls the diplomatic sensation of a decade and a half ago when he was summarily removed as ambassador at Vienna by the then President Roosevelt.

It was Mr. Storer's wife, who was Maria Longworth, of Cincinnati, about whom revolved the strife incidental to the dismissal. She was the "My Dear Maria" in the remarkable series of letters written by the late president and published by Mrs. Storer in defense of her contention that her husband's removal had been an injustice.

It was she, too, who was charged by the president with responsibility for the complications which caused her husband's removal. Mr. Roosevelt, in defense of his action, accused Mrs. Storer with having delved too deeply into the affairs of state and with secretary, involving the United States with the Vatican in Rome and with the governments of France, Spain and Austria-Hungary.

The Storer and the Roosevelts had been intimate friends for many years. Mrs. Storer, aunt of Nicholas Longworth, Mr. Roosevelt's son-in-law, was god-mother to Kermit Roosevelt and Mr. Storer had served in congress when Mr. Roosevelt was a member of the civil service commission.

SEVERAL CITIES ARE WIPED OUT

SANTIAGO, CHILE, November 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Relief forces to aid the thousands made homeless by the earthquakes throughout Chile early Saturday morning and the flooding waves which followed the shocks were being mobilized today. The death toll will probably be at least 1,000, it is estimated, and the property loss will run into the millions as several towns were almost entirely wiped out and heavy damage to buildings and communication lines and particularly ships along the 1,400 miles of coast affected by the huge waves, has resulted from the violent upheavals of nature.

The extent of the casualties, property damages and distress wrought by the catastrophic disturbances has not yet been learned except in a general way, as many communication lines by overland and underwater were put out of operation.

Five hundred persons were reported killed at Vallenari and in the districts surrounding the city. At Coquimbo at least 100 are known to be dead.

The damages from the succession of earth shocks which filled the population with terror, was heaviest in the northern provinces of Antofagasta, Tarapaca and Coquimbo.

Today naval ships were steaming up and down the coast, stopping at various places to send landing parties to the relief of sufferers, many of whom are without food and shelter.

The tidal waves which followed the earthquake indicated gigantic disturbances beneath the Pacific. The waters first were drawn away from shore, far below the low tide mark and then they came rushing back in a great wave which some observers said was fifty meters in height.

The total duration of the shocks was three hours and forty minutes and the estimated radius, 1,200 kilometers in a direction transverse to the Andes. The meteorological institute announced that the earth shock coincided with the passage of a sun spot over the central meridian of the solar body. The sun spot made its appearance on November 5, and was the largest observed this year.

At Valparaiso it was pointed out by Rear Admiral Martin director of the navy meteorological service, that the earthquake came just as the conjunctions of Mercury and Jupiter and Neptune and the sun were approaching and he declared this was significant.

UGLY SITUATION AT CONSTANTINOPLE; ALLIES MAY BE FORCED TO LEAVE

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Now that the Lausanne conference has been postponed to Nov. 20, the question most urgently asked here is whether it will be possible to maintain peace in Constantinople in the interim.

Restoration of communications has revealed such an ugly situation that it is evident that utmost tact and skill will be necessary to prevent outbreaks.

All reports coming to London concur in saying that the extremists are dominating the Ankara government which through its agents in Constantinople is following the policy of defiance toward the allies and terrorism among the local population. Residents of Constantinople are described as being in a state of extreme alarm while the position of the allied troops is represented as one which soon may become untenable. Curious, poisonous rumors have been circulating that the establishment of martial law alone can make Constantinople safe. Complete agreement among the allies and a display of unity in the nature of granting full authority to their commanders in Constantinople to cooperate in any emergency would remove anxiety, it is contended, and guarantee stability during the discussions with the Turks at Lausanne.

Without such complete cooperation it argued the Lausanne conference may not be held.

Commentators in London generally insist strongly upon the necessity for the allied representative to meet together before talking to the Turks at Lausanne in order to decide a common policy. Unless this is done, some observers feel it will be impossible for Great Britain to be represented at Lausanne at all.

Men's Night A Success

At The Second Church

Sunday evening marked a distinct advancement in the progress of the Men's Brotherhood of the Second Presbyterian church when a large audience of men and a splendidly filled balcony of women heard Rev. H. L. Evans' address on "The Men of Portsmouth." Men who heard the message of Rev. Evans were more than amply repaid for their close attention and attendance. It was a message direct from the shoulder, carrying some useful thoughts for every day application and combined with the words of admonition an urgent appeal to the men of Portsmouth to be men, mentally, physically and spiritually. Several vocal numbers, a solo by Lee Rogers, and a rendition by a quartet composed of Messrs T. C. Lloyd, Mendel Jones, Harry Denton, Carl Mehlend also were a feature of a delightful evening's program. Spiritual congregational singing enlivened the meeting. The evening was a decided success and was a striking testimonial of what the men can accomplish in church work by combined efforts.

Train Hits Auto; Driver Is Hurt

James Turner, colored, of 1214 Fourteenth street, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured, if not killed, Sunday evening about 5:30 o'clock when the Rulick touring car he was driving was struck by N. & W. passenger train No. 15 at the Fifteenth street crossing. Luckily Turner was thrown out of the car and was dragged along with the wreckage of the machine.

He was put in Lynn's ambulance and removed to Hempstead hospital where Dr. S. S. Halderman attended him and found that a badly bruised left leg and minor bruises about the body were the only injuries suffered by Turner.

A man who was riding in the rear seat of the automobile jumped from the machine and escaped injury. Turner could not get out from behind the steering wheel in time to get clear of the machine, and when the train struck the machine it upset sent Turner flying from the car to the street. The machine was carried by the engine of the train to a spot about fifty feet north of the crossing where the car now lies, a total wreck on the bank of the N. & W. right of way.

Turner and his companion were driving east on Fifteenth street, and failed to hear the passenger train approaching the crossing. When Turner did see the engine it was too late for him to stop and he did not have time to clear the tracks. He applied his brakes but the machine was close enough to the west rail to be struck by the pilot of the engine.

Turner was able to leave the hospital this morning. The train was in charge of Conductor C. F. English and Engineer J. R. Scott.

New And Painless Cure For Cancer Claimed

NEW YORK, November 12.—(By The United Press)—A new and painless cure for cancer, according to its inventor, Dr. Francis Carter Wood, gripped attention of the scientific world today. Wearing heavy leg armor and head glasses three doctors demonstrated a new X-ray apparatus built for study of disease. The machine was so powerful that the demonstrations though protected by heavy metal, dared not enter some rooms, but carried on their investigation on the other side of a brick wall. The new apparatus which runs on a 200,000 volt current, will drive rays through a quarter inch of lead, foot of aluminum and two feet of brick.

It will also photograph the bones of a hand a block away. The demonstration took place in the Crocker Research Laboratory at Columbia University, and was given to start the nationwide campaign of a week to call the attention of the public to the treatment of cancer, a disease from which 20,000 people are said to die unnecessarily every year. Machines of less strength partially developed photographic plates on the first floor of the building, while the apparatus is on the third floor. Tens of thousands of small animals have been inoculated with the disease during the development of the new cure which is now almost perfectly developed, says Dr. Wood.

Pythians Planning For Big Drive

The Pythians of Scioto county have put a big "L" in the name of L. L. Lodge last Saturday night, when over 100 Knights visited the Pythians of Mansfield. L. L. Lodge is the answer and another treat for all who attended. Many of the faces seen on the other visits were missing but new ones were added which shows the interest is still running high.

It is for a fact, for when old timers like Sampson Eckhart and E. Rieckey attend the first time for several years and get that old spirit again, it looks like these visits are delectable to the gods. It is a good name to the efforts of the County Deputy and the General Chairman, for every lodge that has been visited by the Pythian Squadron seems to be brightening up and the old paper parades its bid and everyone takes a good big helping of the Py.

Some of these visits are after a good long drive and the evenings are rather cool, the silver moon does not show its radiant face until late but that does not hold them back, as one of the boys said, "I bet Knights the numbers are at home on these trips."

A lot of credit belongs to them and they have not forgotten that without the cooperation of the different lodges it would not have been such a success. They extend their thanks to all the Knights for their loyalty and ask all who hope to attend the meeting at Wheelersburg Lodge to show up at high pitch there can be no doubt as to the success of the meeting to be held on the afternoon of the 14th.

Here Is Ruling On War Saving Stamps

Much confusion has arisen among holders of war savings stamps, over misunderstanding of a recent order of the treasury department, regarding the redemption thereof. In order that the matter may be made entirely clear The Times publishes the following statement from Postmaster Harold:

"After Tuesday, November 14th, war savings stamps of the issue of 1918 will not be paid in full at the local post office. Now, mind you, I say in full. Should any holder wish to redeem now, or any time, before the first of January, he will be paid cash at the redemption rate, $4.70 for each $5 stamp, during November and $4.71 during December.

"However, should he desire to hold them for redemption on January 1st, at full value, $5, he should bring his stamps to the office as soon as possible, and make application. Upon doing this his stamps will be sent to the federal reserve bank at Cleveland and it will mail him a check for the stamps, $5 for each one, so as to reach him by the first of January. Of course, he will be given a receipt by the local office for his stamps, pending payment of them.

"It is probable misunderstanding has arisen because it is the privilege of the holder of stamps to exchange them for savings certificates, at the $5 value, any time now and between now and the first of January. That is well supposed as owner of stamps wants to convert them into savings certificates. He will bring his stamps to this office and we will give him a certificate dated January 1st, 1923, in an amount equal to the redemption value of his stamps on that date, or if he would like to have part cash, and part certificates, we'll arrange that to his satisfaction also.

"The certificates are not taxable and bear a somewhat higher interest than do the stamps."

The transportation problem has been one which the Bureau has been trying to cut down, in co-operation with the Salvation Army and the Red Cross. Reports show that the concerted effort of these three organizations are having effect, for only one transportation by the Bureau was furnished during October.

There were 63 investigations for school books. In addition to this, Miss Clare has secured employment for many men and women out of jobs, has given clothing, and in every varied activity which makes up her department, October has been a very busy month.

Over 122 house calls were made by Miss Johnston, the Community nurse during October. This does not include other calls, which aggregate 187, which includes taking patients to doctors, for examination, going to drugists for prescriptions, bringing poor patients to some of the local dentists, who do this work as part of their service to the community. Miss Johnston handled 45 cases at the dispensary during October, and assisted at 28 examinations during the trichoma clinic, and later at the 35 operations—as well as giving post-operative care to 27 patients in one day. 3 patients were referred to the Mercy clinic for examination and one to Mercy hospital. 4 were sent to Hempstead hospital, and one case sent to the Sanitarium.

Ten Cars Derailed

HAMDEX, Nov. 13—East-bound freight running as a section of No. 96 wrecked ten cars just west of Zaleski about five o'clock Sunday morning, including mostly loads of fine lining, steel billets, steel drums, brick and hauled hay from Portsmouth, South Webster and Oak Hill. Four of the cars were destroyed but most of the contents were saved. The track was damaged to the extent of ten rails and 75 ties. Wreck trains from Chillicothe and Parkersburg were called out to clear the wreckage and main track No. 3 was delayed over an hour. Main track not being cleared until Sunday afternoon. Some of the wrecked cars were piled four deep. No one was injured.

DEMAND FOR STEEL LESS ACTIVE

NEW YORK, November 13—The demand for steel is less active and as production is increasing, with stocks accumulating, partly on account of transportation conditions, the market is easier with an irregular, declining tendency. Pig iron is inactive and heavy, owing to the reduced cost of production. Copper was a little more active, at the beginning of the week, but business fell off again and the market was dependent largely upon the continued firmness of producers who were generally holding electrolytic for 13 7/8 cents delivered. The increased output especially in South America, has been considered chiefly responsible for the recent sagging tendency of the market. During the first four months 12,500 tons more copper have been imported than during the first six months of the year, and with demand less active, the possibility of an easing of the position is being commented upon in some quarters.

Tin made further advances, but reacted. The set-back inspired some demand from consumers, but generally buyers are slow to follow London bulges.

Zinc firm and higher, with a better inquiry from both domestic and export interests.

Antimony was quiet and unchanged.

Miss Dolly Wise

See is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am coming to you for the first time for your opinion, or rather advice. I am a widow with three children, their ages from 9 to 16 years, and I work and keep house and send the children to school. The oldest child is a girl of past 16. She is healthy, weighs close to 150 pounds, but in the morning she will stay in bed and not prepare the breakfast for the other two children, but will get a book or magazine and read it almost time to go to school, then goes ready and never does a thing. Now Dolly, don't you think she should have enough respect for me to get up and do up the work such as make beds and wash the dishes. She doesn't even cook anything at noon but will go to the grocery and get a lot of things ready to eat. I very often cook things at night after supper for my meals next day such as meat, beans, potatoes, etc., but she won't even turn them up at the noon time. It certainly is disgusting to work from 12:30 until 4:30 then come home tired and have to wash dishes, sweep and make beds, then get on my own supper. They expect me to do all that, then dress them as other children with plenty, do. They have good clothes, but I do think they should take more steps off of me than they do, for their living and education for their future living all depends on me now. Dolly, please answer this to your best opinion.

WORRIED MOTHER.
You are the boss in your household and also the boss of your daughters until they are 18 years of age, and it is your duty to see that they obey you, and do their share of the work. Of course if you have been waiting on them hand and foot since they were children, you will have more or less trouble making them do their share, or taking over the housework entirely, since you have to make the living outside the home. I sure would see that the eldest daughter got out of bed in the morning in time to help with the work before school, if I had to turn the hose on her. However, if she was a dutiful daughter, and had the least bit of love and respect for her mother she would not have to be told to wait upon her. The smaller ones should be taught to help, too. Divide the work and give each one of them something to do and see that they do it. At night, or at the noon hour, make them take turns at washing the dishes. If you all get busy, the work will be fun and can be done up in a jiffy.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young married woman of 23, and my husband is 31. Have had another husband before this one, and he has had three wives. I have no children of my own but he has four by his second wife. I am a good wife and stay at home all the time, keep my house clean and do all the work and take care of his children as though they were my own. But Dolly my husband is mean to me and the children are sassy and I just lead a miserable life. I can't even look out of the window without my husband accusing me of looking for some man to flirt with. He gets mad at me and punts and won't speak. He has mistreated me until I hate him, but in spite of this I try to have a smile for him, but I never get one in return. He looks like an old sour pickle that has laid in vinegar for ten years. I guess he thinks I have to stay with him and put up with all the abuse he and his children can give me, but he is badly mistaken. I can make my own living, and that is what I am going to do unless things change for the better before very long.

WORRIED WIFE.
If you were young and inexperienced, I might feel sorry for you, but since you have had one husband, and knew that you were to be this man's fourth wife, I can see that there is anyone to blame but yourself for the pickle that you are in. You were taking a lot for granted if you thought you could manage a husband that three other wives failed to manage. You were also taking a mighty big responsibility upon your shoulders when you undertook to raise four children that did not belong to you, and whom you might have known would work against you. However, in spite of all this, I believe you could manage this man and your step children if you wanted to, or knew how to manage them. In the first place you will have to give them to understand that you are boss, and they will have to respect you. If they are old enough to know that you are not their mother, they will never treat you as such, but you might gain their love and confidence and have a good time together as brothers and sisters. As for the husband, don't let him abuse you.

UNDECIDED GIRL.
Don't worry, you'll meet your ideal some sweet day—but if you don't get desperate and marry some one just for spite, or because you want a man. Your acquaintance with men must be limited to a very few, and these seem to be the wrong kind. There are lots of men in the world who did not drink or run after women either. Get over on the right path and you will meet them.

The following from Sunday's Ohio State Journal will be read with interest as Miss Johnson is well known here, having spoke in the local High School last winter. Mr. King is also well known in Portsmouth. The Journal also printed a picture of Miss Johnson and Mr. King:

"Announcement is made today of the engagement of Miss Lucia B. Johnson of Cleveland and Columbus to Mr. Simeon H. King, Rio Grande, president of Rio Grande College. The marriage will be an event of Thanksgiving day, Nov. 30, and will be solemnized by the bride-elect's father, Rev. George Johnson, at his home, 927 Brunswick Road, Cleveland Heights, at 4:30 in the afternoon. The marriage is the outcome of a political romance, the first meeting taking place when Miss Johnson went lobbying to the State house for the passage of a better, compulsory education law. Mr. King, then a member of the house of representatives, already interested in better education, became the promoter of what afterward became the present compulsory school law and was known as the "Father of the Ring bill." He has served two terms in the state legislature and has been chairman of many important committees. He was awarded the degree of A. M. by Ohio University. Miss Johnson is an alumna of Smith College, for several years identified with various branches of educational work in the East, and since coming to Ohio has served in many public capacities, including executive secretary of the woman's committee, Council of National Defense, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Child Welfare and for two years has been director of the child welfare department of the Ohio Institute for Public Efficiency, leaving that work yesterday. She has been active in suffrage and in parent-teacher work. In fact, she has become known as "the most useful woman in the state of Ohio."

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE Twins climbed a mountain and before long they came to a place where there was a lot of snow.

Right near was a little house where a woodchopper lived, and out in the front yard stood a big white figure looking thoughtfully at nothing at all.

"There's Snow Man," whispered Nancy. "Let's surprise him."

So they tiptoed up softly from behind and yelled "boo" so loudly that Snow Man dropped his gun-stick and his butter-bowl hat slid down over his eyes.

"Who is it?" he gasped. "Is school out already? I thought from the looks of the sky it was only ten o'clock. Billy, please pick up my stick and straighten my hat. I'd be mortified to death if anyone saw me like this."

Nancy and Nick stepped around where Mr. Snow Man could see them.

"We're not silly," laughed Nancy, straightening his hat.

"My, my! Hello, children! How did you get here?" exclaimed Snow Man, talking as well as he could with his pipe in his mouth.

Nick explained that no mountain was too steep for them to climb with their Magic Green Shoes. And he told about Mother Goose losing her broom, too, and how they were hunting for it.

"Did you happen to see it?" asked Nancy.

"I'm not sure," answered Snow Man in a worried voice. "The children found an old broom somewhere and clapped off the handle to make my gun. Will you please see if it's the one you are looking for."

"Does it change color?" asked Nancy. "Mother Goose says her broom always matches the sky."

"No," answered Snow Man in a relieved voice. "This can't be it after all."

The wedding feast is held at the home of the bridegroom and is provided by him. The parents of the bride, however, make an elaborate gift to the bridegroom's family.

Oats Differ

Like apples—be careful

Some oats are large and luscious. But a bushel of choice oats yields only ten pounds of such grains.

Those grains alone are used in Mother's Oats. That's the reason for the delightful flavor.

Some oats are small and stunted. They yield insipid flakes. Those oats are all discarded in this brand.

No food you serve to children can compare with oats. There are 16 needed elements in oats—body-builders, vim-producers, minerals, etc. Every pound yields 1810 calories of nutriment.

Oat flakes, above all foods, should be served at their best. You want children to love this dish.

1 quart cranberries (2 pounds) 1 pint sugar 1 cup water

PICK over and wash cranberries, place in an enamel or porcelain kettle with sugar and water. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Turn into molds or mold and let cool. Cranberries cooked in this way may be eaten without straining, the skins being very tender. This mixture always jellies.

For frozen cranberries strain the mixture, pour into freezer and freeze to a mush as you do ice cream. Served in glasses it makes a good accompaniment to chicken or turkey.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Suddenly Jack's eyes began to water and he noticed that the little pebbles along the shore were throwing up a brilliant reflection. As he examined the pebbles he discovered that they were not just ordinary stones but pearls. Then a voice from above startled him.

"What are you doing on this island?" asked a little fat man who stood at the top of a hill of pearls. Jack explained how his raft had drifted there. "Well, don't be afraid," shouted the man. "I like you very much. Come on up here." So Jack started to climb the beautiful white hill. "Here, sonny," he shouted, "grab this rope and I'll help you." (Continued.)

He had gone but a few steps when the great mass of pearls started to roll down on him. In an instant Jack was almost buried, and very frightened. The old man, at the top of the hill, however, just laughed. "There, sonny," he shouted, "grab this rope and I'll help you." (Continued.)

Triumphs of M. Jonquille

by MELVILLE DAVISSON POST
© 1922 NEA Service, Inc

THE opera had opened. The music began to fill the corridors. But M. Jonquille did not go in. He remained idling in the foyer, a cigarette in his fingers, his manner and air, a well-bred, bored indifference. The whole house was crowded. There was not a vacant seat. It was the last performance in Paris of Mme. Zircenoff's Salome. A few belated persons passed M. Jonquille and entered the doors to the boxes. Some of these persons addressed him; all regarded him. He was a well-known figure in Paris. His friendship was worth something, and whether one knew him, or cared to know him, all were curious about the man. The vast music assembled and extended itself. The foyer became empty, and still M. Jonquille did not go in. Perhaps it was because Mme. Zircenoff had not gone on. She was a famous beauty; her Salome had the abandon which stimulated even the jaded nerves of France. It had been on at the Opera for fifty days, and Paris was still keen to see it. The woman was a Russian exotic, one of those alluring creatures that always assemble a fabulous legend. There was a wild passion in her Salome, and her conquests were the gossip of Paris. The opera had continued for perhaps thirty minutes. Mme. Zircenoff had come on; her voice, like a silver bell, reached M. Jonquille clearly where he sauntered in the foyer. Presently the door to a box opened and one of the pages of the theater appeared with an immense bouquet of orchids. The flowers were worth a thousand francs. They could have been grown in Paris only with extreme care and under every perfection of light and temperature. It was a mass of flowers that would have drawn the attention of anybody, exquisite orchids of the genus Oncidium Kramerii, called the Mottled Butterfly. It seemed to have drawn the attention of M. Jonquille. He stopped the page as he passed him. "Caroon," he said, handing him a piece of gold. "Find me a box of cigarettes before you go on with those flowers. Quickly—run: I will hold them until you return." The boy knew the great chief of the Service de la Surete. He gave M. Jonquille the bouquet of orchids and disappeared down the stairway. He was gone hardly a moment; when he returned, M. Jonquille had not moved from his position by a pillar of the foyer. He handed back the orchids to the page and received the box of cigarettes. He paused a moment, fingered the box but did not open it; instead, he walked a few steps down the foyer and entered the box from which the page had come out with the orchids. One looking on would have wondered why the Prefect of Police required a pack of cigarettes at the cost of a ten-franc gold-piece—especially as, after having turned it in his hand, he had put it carefully into his pocket and entered a box. It would appear that he waited for these cigarettes before entering the box. But to what end? One could not smoke in a box at the Opera, at its most expensive point in the ultra-fashionable audience of Paris. Although the great Opera house was packed with people—not a vacant seat visible to the eye—there was but one person in the box which M. Jonquille had entered. He was a young man and extremely handsome, a blond French type with a dainty mustache and regular Italian features, and thick, soft, yellow hair presenting the gloss of the seal's coat. In his physical aspect, for perfection of detail, the man had no equal on the Paris boulevards. It had got him a rich American wife and lifted him, as by a fairy lamp, out of the sordid conditions of an old family in decay. The thing seemed a piece of the design of a Providence with an esthetic sense. This exquisite person would have been incongruous except in an atmosphere of wealth. He had an apartment now beyond the Arc de Triomphe, one of those wonderful apartments that the American invasion after the Great War had set up in Paris. The Marquis was the envy of the boulevardier. But it was rumored that he had not the freedom of his wife's money sacks. He got what she allowed him, but it ought to be written here in justice to the Marquis, that it was not he who complained. Why should he? The allowance was evidently enough for any reasonable man. He had the best of everything; if he felt any sense of stint, there was no sign either by word or act. In form, the Marquis was above reproach. There could be no surprise to the fashionable audience of Paris in the fact that the Marquis was alone in the box. His wife was on a visit to America, and it was better fitting that the Marquis should be alone than to be with another who might console him for his wife's absence. If the Marquis was not the best of men, he was at our rate not the least discreet.

He rose and bowed when the Prefect entered.

"Ah, monsieur," he said, "I am charmed to see you. Mme. Zircenoff will be even worth an hour of the priceless time of the Prefect of Paris. . . . I shall be honored to have you as guest; pray sit down." M. Jonquille sat down. He looked a moment over the vast audience, brilliant and distinguished; a moment at Mme. Zircenoff on the distant stage; and then he addressed his host.

"Monsieur," he said, "Mme. Zircenoff is, I imagine, beyond rubies. But I have not come here to observe her; I have come to ask you about the robbery in your apartment. That was an extraordinary robbery."

"It was most extraordinary," monsieur," replied the Marquis. "The whole of Paris regrets that you were out of France at the time. Where were you, monsieur?" Then the Marquis added with a laugh:

"You cannot be expected to tell that; you protect us, monsieur, by your mystery. If the Lecca could say, 'Tomorrow M. Jonquille will be in Brussels; we should not have a jewel or a five-franc piece remaining to us.'"

"Ah, monsieur," replied the Prefect, "you do me too much honor; there are a number of very good men with the Service de la Surete, quite as capable as I to protect Paris."

The Marquis laughed. "You have an affection for your associates, M. Jonquille, that I fear clouds your intelligence. Nothing could have been managed more stupidly than the investigation of my apartment. In your absence, monsieur, you cannot imagine into what hopeless commonplace the investigation of a criminal affair in Paris can descend. "Alas, monsieur, there is a gulf fixed between Alexander and the lieutenants of Alexander! But for my own feeble efforts, nothing would have resulted from the police investigation in my apartment. The necklace of diamonds which the Marquis purchased for five hundred thousand francs—acquired from the crown jewels of Russia—would have disappeared without a clue to the thief. As it happened, he was brought to justice; he confessed and was sentenced for an incredible period by the court. But for me,"—and again the Marquis laughed—"there would have been no thief sentenced. Your inspectors, monsieur, were ridiculous."

"QUICKLY—RUN: I WILL HOLD THEM UNTIL YOU RETURN."

There was humility in the Prefect's reply.

"And the Marquis Chantelle was ungrateful! His fame in the affair has reached me; he is the admiration of the Surete. I have come, monsieur, to verify the details, and from yourself. I do not know what rumor may have added or omitted."

He bowed slightly. Like one would add a gesture of compliment to his words.

"Willingly, monsieur," replied the Marquis. "I shall be charmed to verify details; but you will pardon me if I am moved to ask you for your opinion on a certain phase of this mystery. You must have an opinion, monsieur, if you do not have an explanation, in fact."

He turned a little in his seat. "Monsieur," he said, "how did it happen that when we had fixed this robbery upon Jean Leques, a member of the Surete, he admitted it before the court and asked for an immediate sentence? But he would admit nothing else; he would not say what he had done with the necklace or where it was."

"That was a strange position for a man to take, monsieur. He could have nothing from the judge. Why confess? It did not lighten his seat."

"Monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why did he refuse to say where the necklace was? Of what service would be the necklace to him after twenty years?"

Again M. Jonquille replied directly and with decision. "Of no use, monsieur; the man did not expect it to be of any use to him."

"Then, Monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why did he refuse to say where the necklace was, and thereby reduce his sentence?"

M. Jonquille seemed to reflect. "You have asked for my opinion," he said. "I think I can do better than give an opinion. I think I can tell you precisely the reason why Jean Leques, when he confessed this crime before the court, refused to say what had become of the necklace."

Another installment of "The Mottled Butterfly" will appear in our next issue.

Deputy Resigns

MANCHESTER, Nov. 13.—Aaron Meeker, deputy sheriff under C. H. Pettit, has resigned. Coleman Fisher was appointed for the remainder of the term.

Speeder Fined; Machine Fired On

VANCEBURG, Ky., Nov. 13.—When D. A. Hughes, city marshal, met an auto which was speeding at a high rate on Southern avenue he ordered the driver, Jason LeMasters, to stop. Instead of stopping, LeMasters sped up still faster. The marshal then drew his gun and shot into the machines three times. Even this failed to stop the flying auto, which was soon out of sight.

Later Hughes succeeded in arresting young LeMasters, who was fined $5. On account of the youth of the offender, the judge was very lenient, but he was told that if he repeated the offense he would be severely dealt with. LeMasters lived at this place, but now works in the N. and W. shops in Portsmouth.

Noted Artist To Sing Here November 27

Members of the Ladies' Musicians' Club feel much gratified at the cordial reception accorded Riccardo Martinelli and hope to give equal pleasure in the singing of Marjorie Maxwell, the noted artist of the series who appears here Nov. 27th.

Miss Maxwell is a whole hearted American girl with voice of surpassing beauty—a pure lyric soprano. It is colorful throughout its wide range and is marked by cleverness of tone.

Touring with the Chicago Operatic Company for one season, Miss Maxwell's singing created a real sensation wherever this group of artists appeared. During her engagement with the Chicago Operatic Association in Chicago and New York, she scored an individual success, gaining instant favor with opera goers and the commendation of the critics, who praised her work in superlative terms. A few tributes from the Press, 1921-22 might be interesting:

"Marjorie Maxwell sang all too briefly in the choral as princess. Portland has wanted to hear more of her delightful voice. In this number her voice was heard from within the temple. IT WAS LOVELY IN QUALITY."

"Miss Maxwell's voice is of high texture but admirably placed and equalized, and of peculiarly lovely quality, warmly vibrant and concentrated, and like the timbre of small violin."—New York American, Feb. 18, 1922.

These are only two of many tributes to her work as an artist.

S.S.S. Is the Great Builder of Red Blood Cells and Rheumatism Must Go!

"Rheumatism? No! No, indeed, it's all gone, even my bit of it! It's such a relief and joy for me now for the first time in years I feel a wonderful glow again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twinges and swellings they used to have. I send you over the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all. To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. It builds up the muscles of your red blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood strength. Blood which is misused sufficient red cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleaner, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run down, tired men and women, debilitates, complexions, makes the flesh firmer. Start S. S. S. today. Firemen Answer Two Calls

The companies from two fire stations responded to an alarm shortly before midnight Sunday to the old milk depot on Gallia street, where a blaze was discovered in the apartments on the second floor occupied by C. P. Skidmore and family. The fire originated from a defective gas connection to a stove put in use and the flames were burning briskly between the walls when the firemen arrived and put out the blaze, with small damage.

Shortly before noon Sunday two fire companies made a run to the home of Ed. Clark, 712 Eleventh street, following a fire scare caused by a paper pasted over a fine hole burning away. There was no damage.

Hazelbeck will insure you.

Laundry Basement Is Flooded

A broken water pipe flooded the basement of the American Steam Laundry company plant, at Front and Glover streets late Sunday night, resulting in considerable damage to supplies of soap, starch and other property stored there.

A flaw in the pipe broke under the pressure and the basement was almost filled with water before the break was discovered. Water works officials were notified and the water was shut off and the basement drained itself over night. This permitted the plant to continue in operation Monday, with only slight interference.

Market News

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Aided by forced liquidation professional interests launched another bear attack at the opening of today's stock market, forcing recessions of 1 to 3 points in a number of issues. Railroad and oil shares yielded the most. Jersey Central dropped 3 points and losses of 1 to 1 1/2 took place in Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Delaware, truck island and Pure Marquette. Heavy offerings of general Asphalt common and pfd., caused them to drop 3 1/2 points each to new low records for the year. Pan American A and B, California Petroleum and Standard Oils of New Jersey and California were down 1 to nearly 2 points. Houston Oil also fell to a new low at a loss of 2 points. Other conspicuous drops were Sears-Roebuck, American Tel. & Telegraph, National Enameling, Pacific Gas, Corn Products, National Biscuit pfd., Continental Can and Dupont all down 1 to 2 points. The resistance encountered at a lower level induced extensive short covering and the list started to move up against under the leadership of steel, Studebaker, Baldwin and American Can, each of which were up about a point above Saturday's close.

Indications that stocks were being more liberally supplied on all rallies encouraged more aggressive short selling after the early recovery had run its course. United States Steel sagged to 104 1/2. Baldwin to 124 1/2. Studebaker to 121 1/2. American Can to 70 1/2 and Standard Oil of New Jersey to 105 1/2. Constructive factors such as the lower renewal rate for call money and optimistic tone of weekly business review failed to stem the volume of selling orders. Montana Power, which broke four points, and Famous Players which dropped 3 1/2, were among the outstanding weak spots in the second period of reaction. Toward midday, further short covering set in and the list started to move up again in response to better buying support for United States Steel, Baldwin and Studebaker, the last named touching 123.

Call money opened at 7 per cent. Irregular price movements took place in today's stock market, but the main tendency was downward. Trading was largely of a professional character, short selling being encouraged by forced liquidation and the inability of bull operators to attract an outside following. Sales approximated $1,050,000 shares.

The closing was irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Wheat values for an upward swing here today, but the early dealings because of a drop in London and Liverpool and a drop in the Winnipeg market on Saturday. Apple Case On Trial

The suit of William Fenn & Co., Columbus, against The Leitchner & Jordan company of this city, and Guibrie & Fleure, Ironton, came to trial before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Monday.

The plaintiff brought suit for $2,028.00 damages for the alleged failure of the defendants to deliver several hundred barrels of apples under a contract entered into by the plaintiff on January 28, 1921. Plaintiff claimed that after two barrels, or 322 barrels of apples had been shipped, the defendants refused to deliver the remainder of the fruit on which plaintiff had made a deposit of $1,500. The sum of $1,168.00 plaintiff contends is still in the hands of the defendants who for a defense allege that plaintiff repudiated the contract and refused to take the fruit. Defendants seek $2,000 damages for the expense they were put to in rehandling the apples by reason of the refusal of plaintiff to carry out the contract.

Attorneys Miller & Seal of this city and Stanley R. Schwartz, Columbus, for plaintiff and Attorney A. R. Johnson, Ironton, and Blair and Blair for defendants.

Seeks Divorce, Etc.

Anna Warner, Valley street, New Boston, charges cruelty and infidelity in her suit for divorce and alimony with custody of their three minor children filed in Common Pleas court Monday against Harry Warner, whom she married at Catskill, N.Y., in September 1910.

Through Attorney T. C. Beatty the plaintiff complains that Warner pursues a continual policy of cursing, abusing and otherwise mistreating her, declaring that on one occasion he threw scalding coffee on her seriously burning her, besides, she says, he has been guilty of misconduct with other women. She further says that he squanders his money for drink and asserts that his misconduct towards her has been constant that she cannot live with him longer as his wife.

Will Pay Alimony

By agreement Thurman Brown, 403 Broadway street, will pay his wife, Hazel M. Brown, of Jackson street, the sum of $50 as temporary alimony pending hearing of her suit for divorce and alimony, according to an entry filed in the office of the clerk of courts Monday.

Burton Case Finished

Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Monday heard additional evidence in the divorce suit of Charles C. Burton, against Hulda Burton, New Boston, and at the request of counsel, continued the case for argument.

They were married in 1897 and Burton charged neglect while the wife in her cross petition alleged cruelty.

The property rights of the parties was an important issue in the case, Burton claiming that he devoted the defendant five separate tracts of real estate, one situated on Gallia street, New Boston, and four in Fullerton, N.Y., valued at $7500 in order to please her and to honor that he might receive better treatment from her, while she retained title to six other tracts valued at $4800 and seeks the property so devoted to be held in trust.

In commenting on the case at the finish the court declared that the evidence indicated strongly that a concerted effort or conspiracy had been made by certain parties to cause a separation between the couple.

Attorneys Sheppard and Beatty for Burton and Theo. K. Funk for the wife.

Fires Injunction

Alleging that the defendant has planted a post on her premises at the rear of her home for the purpose of preventing her from opening and using the doors of her garage, all for the purpose of harassing, tormenting and annoying her Melissa E. Moore, 1909 Eleventh street, filed an injunction suit in Common Pleas court Saturday to prevent George Luther, 1910 Eleventh street, from maintaining the post and from interfering in any manner with her free use and enjoyment of the garage.

A temporary restraining order was allowed to issue as prayed for, pending the final hearing. The plaintiff sued through Attorney R. F. Kimble.

Seeks Judgment

An action seeking judgment for the possession of two lots in Sumner, Kansas, was brought in Common Pleas court Saturday by Edward A. Smith and Estelle Smith against G. Earl McKinley.

In their petition filed through Attorneys Miller & Seal, the plaintiffs allege that the defendant entered upon the premises under a promise of a certain contract for the sale of the real estate, entered into May 10, 1921, under the terms of which defendant assumed the payment of a mortgage of $500, and the balance of the purchase price $1021.50 in monthly installments of $20 each, after paying $200 in cash.

It is claimed that the defendant has failed to make the payments required by the contract and that the rights of the defendant under the agreement have been forfeited.

Court House

On the grounds of infidelity and neglect, Fred Wolfe, Stanton avenue, New Boston, steel worker, was granted a decree by Judge Thomas Saturday, divorcing him from Ellen Wolfe. They were married in March, 1917, and Wolfe told the court that they separated five times because the defendant persisted in associating with other men and an account of her misconduct in this regard he stated that he was compelled to finally leave her wife in September, 1921. In connection with his charges of infidelity, Wolfe accused the wife of being too familiar with one Pete Riggs, the plaintiff was represented by Attorney S. A. Skelton.

THEATRICAL

"SALLY, IRENE AND MOLLY"
AT THE SUN TOMORROW

"Sally, Irene and Molly" has thoroughly won the hearts of American theatre-goers through the wholesome charm of its sweet story and the lilting quality of its music. It is greeted every night by audience limited only in size by the capacity of the playhouses and indications point to a continuance of the unprecedented prosperity.

"Sally, Irene and Molly" is infectiously gay and affords entertainment of the type that the tired business man finds so comforting. Maxfield Harris has supplied a musical score with more than the usual allurement of song hits in it. Some of the numbers are among the world's best sellers in sheet music form and a likewise hit with the buyers of pianola and victrola records.

There is but one touring company playing "Sally, Irene and Molly" in America, and it will have its first local presentation on the stage of the Sun theatre Tuesday, matinee and night.

The success of this gem of an ancient comedy has been so great it is necessary to make a restriction of not more than six seats to any one purchaser. Seat sale now.

Durant Will Build Another Star Plant

NEW YORK, November 12.—W. C. Durant has ordered the construction of a fifth factory for the manufacture of Star cars. It will be located at Flint, Mich., will have a capacity of 5000 cars a month and will employ 4000 men.

It is to be a million dollar plant and will be a duplicate of the one now in course of construction for the manufacture of the Flint car. It will afford 51,640 square feet of floor space and be of concrete and steel construction, brick faced. Contractors have agreed to have the plant completed by May 23.

The main assembly plant will be three stories in height, 80 x 900. There will be three wings, two of them three stories, 80 x 400, the third one story, 257 x 400.

The revised Durant schedule calls for the production of 251,000 Star cars between now and Dec. 31, 1924. Between Jan. 1, 1923, and Jan. 1, 1924, 80,000 will be made at Lansing, 50,000 at Flint, 50,000 at Elizabeth, 40,000 in California and 32,500 at Leaside, the Canadian plant. It is expected that the four plants now in operation will produce 16,000 cars before the first of the year.

Her guests on this happy occasion were her five sons and one daughter and their families, numbering thirty-six in all. The daughter living out of the city was unable to be present. The occasion was especially happy for Mrs. Gempferline, as on Anniversary day four years ago two of her sons, John and Ferdinand were serving in the army "over there," and she was more than grateful that they returned to her safe and sound. Ferdinand is the only single member of the family at home. Mrs. Gempferline received many beautiful gifts in honor of the occasion.

Smoke House Team Swamped By Chillicothe

The Smoke House team loped into a real slug Sunday when they played the Smoke House team of Chillicothe, the Ross countians winning 28 to 0. The game was played before a large crowd in Meaco Park.

The Chillicothe players were in far better condition than the locals, and this told in the end. Portsmouth held for a while, but soon gave way to the terrific onslaught of the Chillicothe backfield and the game was soon on ice. Ackroyd, Chabot and Molster played well for Portsmouth and made many good tackles, but the team was outplayed, outsmarted and suffered the worst defeat in its history.

Thompson, Home Run King Passes Away

(By GEORGE CHADWICK)
(Special Correspondent of The Times)

(Copyright, 1922)
NEW YORK, November 13.—The home run king of the National League is dead and he took his honors to the grave with him. There is no player in sight in the ranks of the older league unless it is Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is likely to wrest them from him.

Sam Thompson, "Big Sam," who died suddenly a few days ago in Detroit, hit 127 home runs in the National League from the time he broke into the big show until he found his old legs could not carry him around the bases any more as they had been wont to do.

Good batting? Yes, batting of the highest type but when a batter arose who could hit more than a half century of home runs in a single season, the fame of Sam Thompson was forgotten by the younger element.

What kind of a batter was this Sam Thompson? asked Babe Ruth today. The batting Bambino who can hit everything in sight until there is a world series and who then can not hit anything, stretched his arms and squared his shoulders. "Did he hit like me?"

"No, he had a different swing from yours. He was a left-hander as you are but he did not swing from over the shoulder. He pushed the ball and he could push it as hard as an elephant hunting the lions cage up the runway when the circus loads."

"Some push," ejaculated Babe scratching his head, "was he a big fellow?"

"Yes, bigger than you are—taller and not so big around but with more muscle legs."

"Could he hit as far as I have?"

"Sometimes, although he may never have hit one as far as your farthest."

"Some best I gave that old apple out in Detroit once," Babe grinned mischievously. "They say it was the longest ever made. Thompson died in Detroit. Maybe he saw me hit that one."

The home run king of the American League is alive and the home run king of the Nationals is dead, but Thompson is not forgotten by the old timers. Harry Wright, the press on generation knows him only by name, who was one of the best managers the National League ever had and who as a player helped to make the game what it is, always maintained that Thompson was the hardest hitter who ever lived. Wright, by the way, was an uncle of Boals Wright, the tennis star.

The managers whose teams came to Philadelphia when Sam played for the Phillies, hated to see Thompson come to bat with men on bases and usually they gave odds to pass him. Buck Ewing was behind the bat against Philadelphia in a game in 1908, the year when Thompson hit 21 home runs. Three men were on bases and Thompson was up. Ewing was always something of a humorist and he counted on getting Thompson's goat. As Big Sam walked to the plate, Ewing turned to the stands, removed his cap and said: "Gentlemen, you all know Mr. Thompson. He is about to bat. You can kiss the ball goodbye." Sam grinned, shifted his long legs around, dug in his spikes, let two go by and hit the third one. When last seen the ball was headed for the next county. As Sam trailed the other three runners across the plate, he said to Ewing: "I make a rule never to disappoint an old ball fan." What Buck said can not be proved.

President John Heydler when asked today if he thought any player in his circuit had a chance to surpass Thompson's record, replied: "I think Hornsby has a chance."

Juniors Lose To Strollers

Playing against a team carrying considerable more weight the Smoke House Juniors lost a 6 to 0 battle to the Smoke Shop Strollers of New Boston Sunday afternoon on the Millbrook field. The Juniors fought hard and five times when the Strollers held the ball inside the Juniors five yard line they held and took the ball on downs. Most of the playing was in the Juniors' territory, the Strollers working steady, line punches and end runs for steady gains. McCormack, Mays and Deane were the ground gainers for the Strollers.

The Juniors tried hard but could not do much with the big line put on the field by the Strollers. Reimer clipped off a 17 yard run for the Juniors while Mays got away for a 27 yard run for the Strollers. The touchdown came in the third quarter and one a drop-kick was attempted for the one point it was blocked by end Daisler. Quarterback Vernon Smith scored the touchdown for the Strollers. Weidner, Clevenger, Woods and other Juniors made some nice tackles that saved the Juniors from being scored on several times.

STIVERS HI HUMBLER HUNTINGTON

Huntington hit football eleven claimed to be of state championship caliber was made to look like a village eleven Saturday when Stivers of Dayton at Dayton walked over the big team from up the river by a score of 57 to 0. Coach Brinkerhoff of Huntington had an explanation ready, saying that the score remained 0 to 0 while Fullback Haeberlin and backfield men Ward and Vermillion were in the game but as soon as they left the lineup Stivers high started running up their points. Such an 11 only goes to show that the Huntington machine is built around these three men. Stivers hit and followed the game were disappointed in the poor showing made by the visitors as they had been touted as an extra strong team and an eleven that would make a tough match for Stivers. Haeberlin gained many yards on line punches while he was in the game and was on the starting end of several neat passes. The stars were withdrawn from the game, it was said, as they are wanted for the state championship game with Charleston next Saturday.

JESS WILLARD TAKES UP GOLF

JESS WILLARD, who threatens to do a come-back in the fight game and prove that he is the master of Jack Dempsey, has taken up golf as part of his training routine.

Willard has been doing his training in southern California. Recently he visited the Chula Vista Country Club near San Diego, to take a whirl at golf. Now he is a confirmed bug and rarely a day passes without him playing at least 18 holes.

Jim Simpson, golf professional, is instructing Willard in the mysteries of the game. Big Jess says it's tougher than Jack Dempsey.

SMOKEHOUSE AND TANKS MAY PLAY

There is some talk that the Smoke House and Ironton Tanks may yet stage their annual football game before the curtain closes on the present season. There is no interest in the series and it would be folly to stage one after the original dates have been cancelled by the Smoke House eleven. The tentative dates are November 25 and December 2.

Here's a Picture That You'll Love!
RUPERT HUGHES
has written and directed the new Goldwyn Picture Remembrance
It is even better than "The Old Nest!"

For All The Family

Rupert Hughes' latest picture, a super-production made by the Goldwyn Company, should be seen and enjoyed by every member of the family. It is called "Remembrance" and is being presented for 6 days at the Eastland theatre.

The story deals with just such a family as can be found in any American city—a family that has achieved social and financial success and is branching out with an ambitious flourish. Only the father, "Poor Old Pop," the man who built up a small business into a successful department store remains unspoiled.

Pop is expected to work and pay the bills while the rest of the family have a good time. This is the situation when he collapses under the strain and suffers an illness that threatens his life.

First of all, Rupert Hughes has written a gripping human story, but lack of it there is a warning against selfishness and thoughtlessness that cannot well be missed. Pop is a beautifully sympathetic figure. He sacrifices himself uncomplainingly and the mother and children accept everything regardless of cost. No one can see "Remembrance" without profiting by the story of love it unfolds and the warning against selfishness. Claude Gillingwater, a well known stage actor, gives a memorable portrayal of the father.

Saw State Beaten
Rev. Wm. H. Gleiser, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Dr. Gilbert Micklethwait arrived home from Columbus, where they saw Chicago beat Ohio State.

Cue Wizards Will Clash

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Willie Hoppe, former 182 ball line billiard champion, is the oldest, and Roger Conti, 21 year old French titleholder, is the youngest of the six competitors who will play in the international professional championship tournament starting tonight at the hotel Pennsylvania and continuing for eight days. Jack Schaefer, the defending champion, will start the title match tonight with Erich Hugenschlager of Germany, the "dark horse" of the tournament. Conti and Hoppe will start play tomorrow, the former meeting Welker Cochran, another American star, in the afternoon, while Hoppe opposes Edward Hermans of Belgium in an evening match.

Hoppe, who is 35 years old, began winning championships in 1904 and until last year at Chicago when he was beaten by Schaefer for the 182 ball title had held both the 181 and 182 style championships since 1910. Schaefer, who developed his game under the tutelage of his famous father, is 28 years old. Hugenschlager, who is 25, an amateur in his manipulation of the cue, has impressed critics with his play since coming here this year.

Gallipolis Wins

Gallipolis High champions of the Ohio Valley, added another victory to their books Saturday when they took St. Albans down the road to defeat by a 19 to 7 score. Gallipolis will play Tronton High there on Saturday, Nov. 25th, and this game is expected to be the hardest on the Tronton schedule.

Owners May Put Ban On Lively Ball

By NEA Service
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 13.—Officials of the factory in this city that supplies the major leagues with baseballs, hint that the ball may not be as lively next year.

The fact that over 1000 home runs were made in the two major leagues has caused certain agitation against the lively ball. Some of the magnates feel that the free hitting that has featured the games for the past three years will soon have robbed the home run of much of its thrill, since it's getting to be so common.

While it is conceded that the public likes free hitting rather than tight pitching, the magnates seem to think the hitting end of the game is being overdone.

It is said the matter will be freely discussed at the coming major league meeting, and it wouldn't be at all surprising if the order went out to slow up the ball, which after all simply means that the yarn will not be so tightly wound around the cork center.

It is the yarn and the way it is placed on the ball that produces the liveliness of the sphere rather than the cork center.

Charleston Will Play Huntington

Huntington III and Charleston clash in the former city next Saturday and this game is always of great interest in Huntington. Charleston will run a special train to Huntington Saturday and arrangements are under way to care for 1,500 fans.

Fox Chase Opens

WASHINGTON, C. H., Ohio, Nov. 13.—The National Fox Hunters' Association opened its annual session here today with the chase fertility, a contest for fox hounds. Scores of leading fox hunters from all over the country and 250 of the best fox hounds in America were on hand for the meeting which will continue through the week.

Governors of several states are expected to be here Wednesday when a lunch show for the dogs participating will be held.

Arrangements have been made to care for 1,000 members of the Association.

Send News

This is to inform you that because of Wednesday night being the night set for prayer meeting for all the churches in the city, the dates for the Scoutmasters' Course have been advanced one day, which makes the opening meeting on Nov. 16th, instead of Nov. 15th and each consecutive Thursday night following. Please bear this in mind and if possible, be on hand for the first meeting Thursday night, Nov. 16th.

L. T. HENDERSON,
Scout Executive.

Has Resigned

L. E. Stroder has resigned his position as route clerk in the traffic department of the Whitaker-Glessner Company's office at New Boston, and after a short vacation will accept a position with the Yuhon Last Company on Second street, Mr. Stroder worked for the steel company about nine years.

His place in the traffic department has been taken by C. L. Logsdon, of Columbus. Mr. Logsdon worked for the B. & O. for a number of years.

Going To Florida

Mrs. F. E. Hill, of the West Side, has taken charge of the rooming house at 703 Florida street, formerly conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dodge, who are planning to leave in a few days for Florida. They will spend the winter in the Everglades State and may locate there permanently.

Tough Luck No Barrier For Rockne

By NEA Service
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 13.—The loss of one or more star football players means nothing in the life of Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame. His team goes on winning just the same.

Last year his football squad lost a dozen regulars either through graduation or having them declared ineligible because of professionalism. That was quite a blow.

In one of the early games this fall his star tackle, Tom Lieb, suffered a broken leg, putting him out for the rest of the season.

The latest tough break for Rockne is the loss of his whirlwind halfback, Gus Desch. Rockne has declared that Desch is through for the season.

Desch, who is captain of the Notre Dame track team and a holder of Olympic caliber, injured his leg some time ago. The bruise continues very painful and refuses to respond to treatment. Best seems to be the only cure and Rockne has decided to save Desch for track work rather than use him on the gridiron.

St. Paul Team Is Unchanged

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 13.—City of the Associated Press.—There is every indication, according to John W. Norton, president of the St. Paul club of the American Association today, that the same organization which has won three association championships out of four starts will remain intact for the 1923 season.

Whatever sale of players or purchases that are to be made will not be completed until after the annual meeting of the minor leagues at Louisville, December 6, 7 and 8.

Manager Mike Kelley, of the penitentiary winning club, has had several offers from different baseball organizations, but has declared "they will have to be considerably better than St. Paul before I will leave."

Iowa vs. State

Iowa plays Ohio State in Columbus next Saturday and no doubt hundreds of local fans will witness this grid classic. State is due for a comeback and may stage it at the expense of a strong and resourceful team.

YANKEES WIN

TOKIO, Nov. 11.—The American all-star baseball team, touring Japan, defeated the Waseda University team 13 to 6.

The Americans got 18 hits and made one error. The Japanese got 2 hits and made 4 errors. A crowd estimated at 6,000 saw the game.

Defeat Russell

OAK HILL, O., Nov. 12.—The football eleven representing Russell, Ky., lost 13 to 0 here Saturday. It is claimed that Russell used a couple of independent players from Louisa's big team. Oak Hill fought gamely and allowed the visitors to complete only one forward pass.

Herman Pastor, one of the stars on the Oak Hill lineup, was out with a broken knee cap. An effort is being made to get Gallipolis to play in Oak Hill on Thanksgiving Day.

Nobody Lied

I have a shoe (like cut shown) with a medium round toe that is really dressy and yet has the width — made of genuine kangaroo, welted oak soles and rubber heels. A real shoe for a real man — popularly priced at seven.

Lexington Beats Ashland

The Lexington high school eleven won from Ashland at Ashland Saturday 12 to 7. Ashland claimed to be outweighted 18 pounds to the man and considering this fact put up a stiff battle. Fuller, a speedy halfback on the Lexington team made a 55 yard end run and a 60 yard run after intercepting a pass for the visitor's touchdown. Ashland scored in the first period on a series of short line passes.

Death Calls

J. H. Northrup

The Huntington Herald-Dispatch Monday said:

"Col. Jay H. Northrup, aged eighty-two years, died at his home in Louisa, at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. Col. Northrup suffered a stroke of paralysis on Friday and remained unconscious until death."

Col. Northrup, who retired from the Union army with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, came to Louisa soon after the Civil war. He was at once struck with the potentialities of the Big Sandy region and was a pioneer in the development of its natural resources.

Wilce Makes Changes

Coach Wilce of Ohio State is going to make several additional changes in his lineup. He evidently is determined to win one conference game and to turn this trick he must beat Iowa or Illinois and this is no small task.

Strollers After Smoke House Team

The Smoke Shop Strollers of New Boston made a splendid impression on the big crowd of fans who witnessed their game with the Smoke House Juniors yesterday. The Strollers are a heavy, well organized eleven and could make a fine match for the big Smoke House team. The Strollers playing the same kind of a game as yesterday would give the Smoke House eleven a real game and they may contest for the city championship.

A NATION HONORS ITS BRAVE

On the continent of Europe, the 11th was a special day for celebration, before the Armistice was signed. For by coincidence it is the church feast of St. Martin, the soldier saint, patron of infantry. It is, to French and Italians especially, a most symbolic happening so that the two, Armistice Day and St. Martin's Day, should fall upon the same date, and it has occasioned a great deal of speculation among the mystics.

Certainly the linking of the two gives a suggestion of the days of the Crusaders. And there never was crusade with more holy and self-forgetting object than that in which our own boys of all faiths joined when they journeyed into foreign lands to stamp out the war beast.

They fought for mankind against the menace, for civilization against chaos.

This anniversary brings back to some the pang of loss. They are upborne by the realization that their boys who laid down their lives where now spring poppy fields did so with an exalted smile upon their lips. And yet . . . how could they not remember those same lads, in childhood, in youth, marching with bravest to the railroad station and the dock? And then there came a day when the terse message from the War Department seemed to shut the sunlight out. A hero was dead for his country.

Today, parents and relatives of the country's dead soldiers, the nation honors you with them. Your bravery in sustaining your tremendous loss has been next to that of those who are gone.

LOSSES FROM WILD ANIMALS

THE statement that predatory animals in the United States are still sufficiently numerous to have wrought in recent years a damage of $20,000,000 annually to live-stock seems rather surprising. However, the annual loss from this source is being reduced through the efforts of hunters and trappers sent out by the Biological Survey for the express object of eliminating the pests. Naturally the major part of the loss is sustained by the ranchers of the Far West.

It appears that the kill of coyotes, wolves, lynxes and mountain lions depends not so much on the numbers of these animals as on the industry of individuals. One wolf in Wyoming is credited with the slaughter of $25,000 worth of cattle in seven years. Though the animal was hunted and there was a high price on his head he seemed to have more than human intelligence in evading those on his trail. Since the depredations of one animal may run to such high figures some apprehension of the obstacles faced by cattlemen on the ranges may be gained.

Since it is estimated that a mountain lion will kill one deer a week, and as the cats are rather numerous in the Far West, the difficulties which face the deer in the matter of survival are apparent. Thus wild life is menaced by these animals as well as domestic herds. Yet, the rugged country of the West is the last retreat of these predatory animals. Where once they found a home anywhere in the land, they have been driven to the fastness of the mountains.

Organized war being conducted against them will still further decimate their numbers, though it will be long until they are completely exterminated, if that end is ever attained.

THE GULF STREAM FALLACY

UNLEARNING a lot of things they learned in school is one of the occupations of middle-aged and elderly folk nowadays. Modern discoveries in astronomy, chemistry, physics and other sciences have put the old-time knowledge in the discard. Information about stars and the elements, and how light travels and gravitation worked, has become misinformation.

If there was one alleged fact more firmly impressed on youthful minds than another it was the beneficent part played by the Gulf Stream in moderating the climate of the British Isles. Without this warm current, we were told, Great Britain and Ireland would be bleak abodes almost entirely surrounded by icebergs.

A recent suggestion that tinkering with the "keys" along the Florida coast might divert the Gulf Stream and thus give Britain an Arctic temperature evoked numerous expressions of scorn from scientists of authority. "Don't you know the Gulf Stream has nothing to do with the British climate?" is the burden of their contemptuous rejoinder. They inform us that the old theory was exploded long ago, that the stream's flow does not reach within 2,000 miles of any part of Europe.

"The mild climate of Western Europe has practically no relation to the Gulf Stream," says Prof. Redway, a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. In summer it does not reach farther than the Grand Banks of Newfoundland; in winter it extends only up to Cape Hatteras. There are various learned explanations for British mild climate, which is not so different from that of the northern Pacific coast, involving the direction of prevailing warm winds, but it seems that we must absolutely give up the good old Gulf Stream as a factor. And the scientists haven't left even the old equatorial storm for consolation. It, too, it appears, was largely a myth. Oldsters trying to pass school examinations in general knowledge nowadays would doubtless succeed only in giving an exhibition of the fine art of thinking.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, November 12—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up betimes. Sat at my window and watched a snow-flurry and dreamed of man-hunting with the mounted police in the frozen wilderness until my wife came from marketing, then pretended to be labouring.

To my tailor and ordered a gray suit, very neat. Saw Winthrop Ames there but he paid me no notice nor did Jesse Livermore, the banker. Bought a few Christmas gifts. The best my poor purse can afford and remained long in a toy store, flying a flying-machine.

Walked to W. Hogg's in the hope of remaining for lunch, but found him out. So to the Dutch Treat club and found R. Brinkley, the humorist, there and he tells me he is going to France to live a year, as is also A. H. H. the pamphleteer.

In the evening to see "La Ten dressée," very good, and greeted Frank P. Adams, the tale writer, and Roy McCardell, the humorist. Then to a waffle place and so to bed.

There is a woman lawyer in New York who dresses in an extremely mannish style—dubbed but, loose fitting coat, waistcoat, wing collar and walking stick. In the building where she has her office she was riding in an elevator with six other women. The elevator dropped four floors. She was the only woman to faint. None was hurt.

New York becomes pretty drab sometimes, but there are moments when it crackles with interest. On a block in West Forty-Seventh street the other morning necks were stretched to the breaking point. Barney Oldfield was going into a flower store. Across the way Mary Pickford was leaving a jeweler's shop. A parade was passing up Fifth Avenue and Lord Shaw of Dunfermline, on a visit here, was feeding a delivery wagon horse a loaf of sugar in front of the Ritz.

The flashily dressed woman who attempt to make a living in New York playing the races are a type distinct. They live as a rule in the apartments over shops in the Forties and gather in the hair-dressing parlors to discuss the day's fortunes. When they are winning, they are the best spenders in the shops. Strangely, they are well dressed, or rather over-dressed. Their laughter is just a bit louder than that of their sisters. Jackies and trappers, in their eyes are heroes. They apparently know nothing of the world about them. Their life is made up of "past performances" and their jargon is that of the tracks. They are birds of passage—in New York today and Havana tomorrow. Pawn-shops find in them their best customers. They have no interest in savings banks. They invest instead in jewels that can be quickly converted into cash.

The ghosts of 1812 are stalking at the Duncan Phyfe furniture exhibit at the Metropolitan Museum. The furnishings of the period—old mirrors, gilt vases, girandoles and silver plate—are shown in addition. Phyfe was a Scotsman and heir to the traditions of the great English cabinet-makers of the end of the eighteenth century—Adam, Heppelwhite and Sheraton. He made chairs, tables and sofas principally. His workshop was in what is now known as Fulton Street, where the fish-market is. (Copyright 1922, by The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

NOVEMBER

By Blaine C. Bigler
November days are growing cold.
Gone are the girls and flowers;
Gone is the wealth of summer gold:
Vanished the sunny hours.

November rains are pouring down;
November winds are sighing;
November hills are bare and brown;
Earthward the leaves are flying.

Then November brings a surprise,
Brings back the summer weather:
"Indian Summer" under blue skies
Makes us all laugh together.

The Silver Lining

"Has anyone seen my b-b-blanket?" demanded a shivering buck on one of those typically sunny French mornings.

Nobody had—for purposes of publication anyway.

"Has anyone seen my b-b-blouse?" No.

"Well," said the buck, after a moment's deliberation, "I'm g-g-glad I've g-g-got on a nice warm b-b-belt, at any rate."

Drug Ring Uncovered In Ironton

The Irontonian Sunday said: "The Police Department uncovered what may prove to be a wide-spread traffic in narcotics here late last evening when Chief Dunn and Officer Thornton raided the home of Francis Smith on north Third street and discovered approximately $200 worth of opium."

For some time the department has had information which leads them to believe that a regular traffic in drugs was being carried on in this city and after investigation the Smith house was placed under suspicion.

Late yesterday evening a police operative observed several men enter the house and after summoning assistance the house was entered. Once inside the police say Mrs. Smith attempted to mislead them in their search by running to various places in the house. Finally when they came to a dresser she feigned a fit, collapsing across the dresser.

The officers observed, however, that she was working her hand into a drawer and watched her withdraw a bottle, which she attempted to secrete under her clothes. Taking it from her they stated they found it filled with opium in an amount estimated to be worth near $200.00.

Several needles were also found by the officers, who say injections of the drug were furnished habitues of the place at certain prices.

The police claimed last evening that drugs were being peddled through this section by a ring which has headquarters at Huntington, W. Va., and it is said that there are a number of the addicts here, both men and women, who were furnished with the drug regularly. The parties seen entering the Smith home last evening left by another way as the police entered.

A charge of possessing narcotics was filed against Mrs. Smith last night by Chief Dunn, and developments in the case are expected to result shortly.
